

LF NETWORKING

Developer & Testing Forum

Intent Models, The Present and Future

<https://lfnetworking.org>

Introduction

- Intent driven approach is now introduced and implemented in various open source projects and standard bodies.
- The concept is widely accepted, while currently we see different information and data models are designed and chosen by different groups.
- In this session, we would like to learn the progress of the industry on intent model design and discuss how could we collaborate to make a step further.

Open Questions

- What enhancements could be done on top of existing intent models?
- How should open source projects and SDOs collaborate on intent models?
- Which use cases should be prioritized in terms of utilizing intent-driven approach?